New York Stock Exchange Authorities Explain Ban on Steel Foundries Issues.

OFFICIALS ARE RETICENT.

Lewis Nixon, Formerly a Direct or, Says He Has Owned Only One Share-Resigned Place Months Ago,

New York, Jan. 28.—The Stock Exchange authorities made the following formal statement to-day regarding the action of the governors in striking off the list the securities of the American Steel Foundrie Company:

from the Committee on Stock List that misrepresentations of an important character relating to the financial condition of the American Steel Foundries Company at the time of application for listing of its common and preferred stocks upon the exchange in November, 1962, were made to the Committee on Stock List in support of said application; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That in accordance with article 33, section 4, of the constitution, the ommon and preferred stocks of the American Steel Foundries Company be and hereby are removed from the list."

Under the section named, the governing committee is empowered to suspend deal-ings in the securities of any corporation previously admitted to quotation, or it may summarily remove any securities from the list.

Lewis Nixon, who was named as a director of the American Sixel Foundries Company, said to-day that he had resigned that position months ago.

"I entered the board at the request of Mr. Schwab," said he, "some time after the organization of the company. I have no interest in it financially now, and never did have, beyond the qualifying share of stock I held as director."

Neither at the office of the company nor at the office of Max Pam was any statement from the company's side given out to-day.

Offer of $100 Brings Many Applicants to Brave the Icy Bath at the Waterworks.

Diver Jobin has been engaged by the Water Department and he will try to recover the lost chain of the ice eventor at the Chain of Rocks at 8 o'clock this

The breaking of the chain was the culmination of many minor accidents to parts of the intake plant. The needle los has been forming rapidly during the cold weather beneath the surface of the water, and when it is dislodged by the current the lumps are carried into the pipes leading to the pumps.

While the ice elevator was in working order the bits of ice were caught by the buckets and carried out of the intake. When the elevator failed to work the ice was taken into the pumps and materially reduced their capacity.

A few days ago the engine that operated the ice elevator broke down. This was repaired, but early yesterday morning the elevator chain broke, and now lies in thirty feet of water,

The men at the intake tower called ommissioner Adkins by telephone yesterday and said that they were out of bread and butter. They have not been ashore for a week, and a diet of canned goods and pickles was becoming monotonous, they said. A quantity of bread and butter was placed in a boat and started down stream from a point a mile above the intake. Two men were in charge of the boat, but they could not make a landing at the tower.

One of the men fell out of the boat near Baden and swam ashore, and the other landed with the bread and butter a mile furthed down stream. Daily attempts will be made until the bread and butter is safely conveyed to the men isolated in the tower.
